

EDITORIAL BOARD

I graduated from Liverpool Dental School in 2018. Over the past four years, I have worked in various community dental services across multiple trusts, gaining extensive experience in patient care. Currently, I am training as a Specialty Registrar in Special Care Dentistry at The Royal London Hospital, where I get to treat a wide range of patients from complex medical histories, the older patient and those with anxieties/phobias who attend the service for dental care. I particularly am passionate about patient comfort, thoroughly enjoy administering IV sedation to help ensure a safe and relaxed dental experience for their patients.
